

Unit 10

The objective of unit 10 was to provide us with the essential abilities to address significant written tasks such as research papers and dissertations, acknowledging the importance of research writing. I have learned how to structure and approach the various sections of a dissertation. This knowledge will undoubtedly be of great worth during the journey of my own dissertation.

The task of submitting research proposals has posed a challenge for me in terms of time management and effective presentation skills, as I have struggled to deliver audio components within the given time constraints, thus highlighting the need for improvement in these areas.
