

Unit 7

The emphasis in this unit was on delivering the summative literature review, where the research topic was refined to be more focused. This proved to be of great importance when conducting in-depth research on a specific topic.

I have learned the importance of refining and defining the research question. The process of refining and clarifying the research question leads to a more comprehensive exploration of the chosen subject matter, helping to better understand the purpose and objectives of the research.

Anastasiadis et al. (2015) emphasizes the necessity of developing a focused research topic that targets a specific issue and yields significant outcomes.
